CONVECTICUT ARCHITECT SPECIAL ISSUE, APRIL 1977

CONNECTICUT SOCIETY OF ARCHITECTS AIA

1735 NEW YORK AVE 20006

Let us in on your plans. You'll build a better building.

Modern buildings demand modern communications. Telephone, data, teletypewriter, video. Let one of our Building Industry Consultants help you do the planning, before you even start the blueprints.

Otherwise, you might, right now, be planning for an obsolete building. A building where, as soon as occupants start moving in, expensive and annoying alterations have to be made to accommodate individual communication needs.

A Building Industry Consultant

can help you pre-plan everything . . . from where the telephone cables enter the building . . . to where equipment is housed . . . to how many phones may eventually be needed. There's no extra charge for this expert counseling. You end up with a building that's beautiful in every way, including its communications.

A Message from the CSA President

This issue of Connecticut Architect marks the second year in which the Connecticut Society of Architects and Communiconn Publications have cooperated in the production of this construction industry Reference Book. It has been a very worthwhile effort, as a vehicle for presenting our member and firm rosters and as a showcase for some of the design being produced in the State. Equally important, it provides a valuable resource to all those involved in our industry.

This year, I am hopeful of initiating a number of projects that will improve our image as architects. As I have mentioned before, I believe our strongest and unique asset is our ability to design. I feel it is important to orient ourselves in the creative direction, not to the total disregard of the other facets of our profession, but to revive our strength in that area.

As an example, we have been asked to prepare a list of outstanding Connecticut architecture for the State Department of Commerce. This is our chance to make the study into a book similar to the New York Chapter's Guidebook to New York City. We are researching the possibilities now.

This year's meeting programs are directed toward our strength in design. The initial meeting featured Walter Wagner, Editor of Architecture Record, who emphasized our professional importance to society. Our second meeting was illuminated by Cesar Pelli, the new Dean of the School of Architecture at Yale, who gave an inspirational talk and slide show of his latest work.

It is my contention that our primary professional consideration is the quality of design we offer our clients. In the fall, we plan to offer a "Super Course" featuring outstanding representatives of our allied professions on a one-day course per discipline. For example, Lev Zetlin, the internationally renowned structural engineer, has agreed to spend a day sharing with us the value of his experiences relative to achieving the unique and imaginative structural results desired by his architect clients. We will be engaging a mechanical designer, a landscape architect, and lighting designers of the same distinction to fill out the course. They will describe how their professions support and complement ours, and to reach successfully fresh and inevitable architectural design solutions.

Another feature this year will be to put examples of our work on tour throughout the State. We have several ideas on how this can be done. The 1976 Honor Award Winners will go on tour this Spring, and an exhibit of recycled buildings will go on tour next Winter. Our design competition will be more important than ever and we are hopeful of being flooded with submissions.

The New England Region of the American Institute of Architects will be the Chapter's guests at a conference to be held at Mystic on October 21, 22 and 23. Bill Hermann has already made arrangements for us at the Mystic Seaport, with its magnificent facilities, and Philip Johnson has agreed to be the keynote speaker.

I hope we can look back at the end of this year and see the successful realization of such ambitious undertakings. There are a number of dedicated and interested colleagues supporting me in these programs. We are fortunate to have them as members and friends. The long hours they spend before the legislature, in committees, and in meetings to keep this Society viable, go mainly unheralded. I thank them now.

AlA Standards of Ethical Practice

THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ARCHITECTS

AIA Document J330—Revised December 1, 1976

INTRODUCTION

These Standards are statements of ethical principles having broad applicability to professional persons. Accordingly, the enumeration of particular duties and the proscription of certain conduct does not negate the existence of other obligations logically flowing from such principles. Conduct proscribed as unethical must be construed to include lesser offenses, such as attempts and aiding-and-abetting. Deviation from these Standards shall be subject to discipline in proportion to the seriousness of the violation.

The Board of Directors of The American Institute of Architects, or its delegating authority, shall have sole power of interpreting these Standards of Ethical Practice, and its decisions shall be final, subject to the provisions of the Bylaws.

The following provisions of the Bylaws of The Institute form the basis for all disciplinary actions taken under the Standards of Ethical Practice.

IMPLEMENTATION

Bylaws: Chapter 14, Article 1, Section 1(c):

Any deviation by a corporate or associate member from any of the Standards of Ethical Practice of The Institute or from any of the Rules of The Board supplemental thereto, or any action by the member that is detrimental to the best interests of the profession and The Institute shall be deemed to be unprofessional conduct on the member's part, and ipso facto such member shall be subject to discipline by The Institute.

CHARGES PRIVILEGED

Bylaws: Chapter 14, Article 5, Section 1:

Every formal charge of unprofessional conduct shall be privileged. Except as noted in this Article, all charges, proceedings, evidence, data, notices, transcripts and any other matters relating to the charges shall be confidential. The same qualifications shall apply to any material coming before a chapter governing body or committee in any matter, formal or informal, of alleged unprofessional conduct. In unusual situations when the President of The Institute (or the Secretary in the President's absence) determines, after consideration of all the circumstances, that the best interests of the profession, or The Institute, or one of its component bodies so require, the President (or the Secretary in the President's absence) may authorize the release of sufficient information concerning a case to meet the situation.

Bylaws: Chapter 1, Article 1, Section 2:

The objects of The American Institute of Architects shall be to organize and unite in fellowship the members of the architectural profession; to promote the aesthetic, scientific, and practical efficiency of the profession; to advance the science and art of planning and building by advancing the standards of architectural education, training, and practice; to coordinate the building industry and the profession of architecture to insure the advancement of the living standards of our people through their improved environment; and to make the profession of ever-increasing service to society.

OBLIGATIONS TO THE PUBLIC

- An architect shall above all serve and promote the public interest in the effort to improve human environment, and shall act in a manner to bring honor and dignity to the profession of architecture. An architect shall conform to the registration laws governing the practice of architecture in any jurisdiction in which the architect practices.
- 2. An architect shall practice in a manner that will support the human rights of all mankind and shall not discriminate against any employee or applicant because of sex, race, creed, or national origin.
- 3. An architect shall not use paid advertising; indulge in self-laudatory, exaggerated, misleading, or false publicity; or solicit, or permit others to solicit in the architect's name, advertisements for any publication presenting the architect's work.

Interpretation by The Board of Directors, December 1972:

The above prohibition against paid advertising does not prohibit architects or architectural firms from being included in lists which are compiled and distributed by a client group, and for which a nominal fee is charged to offset the cost of compilation and distribution; provided that such lists and the conditions of their preparation and use are specifically approved by The Board of Directors. Nor does this prohibition apply to architectural exhibitions sponsored, co-sponsored or specifically approved by The Institute, for which a nominal charge is made to offset wholly or partially the cost of processing and arranging such an exhibition and/or subsequent publication.

4. An architect shall not publicly endorse a product, system, or service, or permit the use of the architect's name or photograph to imply such endorsement. However, an architect may be identified with any product, system, or service designed or developed by the architect.

OBLIGATIONS TO THE CLIENT OR EMPLOYER

- 5. An architect shall preserve the confidences of the architect's client or employer.
- 6. An architect shall represent truthfully and clearly to the prospective client or employer the architect's qualifications and capabilities to perform services.

Statement in compliance with Consent Judgment entered June 19, 1972:

"Under the Standards of Ethical Practice of The American Institute of Architects the submission of price quotations for architectural services is not unethical. An architect is free to state a fee in offering his services. In so doing, however, he must be careful not to violate any law, ordinance, rule, or regulation of any government or agency, official or instrumentality thereof. He must never subordinate the quality and adequacy of his services to any consideration which would tend to impugn the integrity of his professional practice or to jeopardize the professional standards which should at all times guide the practice of his profession."

7. An architect shall not undertake any activity or employment, have any significant financial or other interest, or accept any contribution, if it would reasonably appear that such activity, employment, interest or contribution could compromise the architect's professional judgment or prevent the architect from serving the best interest of the client or employer.

Interpretation by The Board of Directors, June 1971:

This Standard provides that the architect must avoid any activity which would put, or which could reasonably be construed to put, the architect's financial interest in competition with that of the client; activities during the construction phase are particularly sensitive to such conflicts.

An architect may not engage in building contracting where compensation, direct or indirect, is derived from profit on labor and materials furnished in the building process.

An architect may engage in construction management as a professional for professional compensation only.

As a participating owner of a project, an architect may perform in any role legally consistent with the position of ownership. A real or apparent conflict of interest must be resolved in the best interest of the client.

The Institute holds that the Standards of Ethical Practice are compromised when a member is employed by individuals or organizations offering to the public architectural services which are in any manner inconsistent with these Standards.

8. An architect may take contributions of service or anything of value to those endeavors which the architect deems worthy. An architect has the right to participate in the political process and to contribute time and money to political campaigns.

An architect shall not, however, contribute, or promise to contribute, either directly or indirectly, any gift, compensation, or other consideration of value in order to retain present work or employment, to obtain future work or employment, or to reward anyone for the award of past work or employment. An architect shall not exert improper influence in obtaining professional work or employment or with respect to activities in the construction industry.

The term "improper influence" means influence, direct or indirect, which induces or tends to induce consideration or action with respect to any prospective work on any basis other than the merits of the matter.

An architect, in making a political contribution, shall do so publicly, in the architect's own name and as an individual citizen.

An architect shall not engage an agent or representative to solicit work on the architect's behalf whose compensation is either (a) unreasonable or (b) contingent, in whole or in part, upon the obtaining of professional work for the architect.

Interpretation by The Board of Directors, May 18, 1974:

Nothing herein shall prohibit an architect seeking regular employment from utilizing the services of an employment agency on customary terms.

Interpretation by The Board of Directors, March 5, 1975:

The prohibitions against contingency compensation does not apply to full-time, bona fide employees of the architect.

OBLIGATIONS TO THE PROFESSION AND THE BUILDING INDUSTRY

9. An architect shall not attempt to obtain, offer to undertake or accept a commission for which the architect knows another legally qualified individual or firm has been selected or employed, until the architect has evidence that the selection, employment or agreement of the latter has been terminated and the architect gives the latter written or other equivalent notice that the architect is so doing.

Interpretation by The Board of Directors, March 5, 1975:

Termination, as used here, does not necessarily mean that all conditions of the agreement between the original architect and owner or employer must have been fulfilled to the satisfaction of both.

- 10. An architect shall recognize the contribution of others engaged in the design and construction of the physical environment and shall not knowingly make false statements about the professional work, or maliciously injure or attempt to injure the prospects, practice, or employment position of those so engaged.
- 11. An architect shall encourage education and research, and the development and dissemination of useful technical information relating to the design and construction of the physical environment.
- 12. Members of The American Institute of Architects may offer their services in an architectural design competition when sufficient information on the project and the rules of conduct of the competition are provided so as to reasonably insure that the client will not be misled. AIA Document J332, "Guidelines for Architectural Design Competitions" is recommended for use.

The Organization & Functions of the CSA/AIA

The Connecticut Society of Architects, a chapter of the American Institute of Architects, derives its organizational structure from the Institute which divides its activities into commissions, headed by commissioners.

The chapter's commissioners are given freedom to choose activities that they feel are important and that they feel they can accomplish during their oneyear terms. There are, however, certain activities that take place every year. By enumerating these, this arcicle will illustrate the commissions' areas of concern and the functions of the chapter.

The Commission of Chapter Affairs handles matters that come within the chapter itself. Programs for meetings and the production of chapter communications, such as the Bulletin, are under it. The chapter office's job clearing house, membership solicitation, group insurance and document service are also handled by this commission.

The chapter's annual Honor Awards Program, which gives recognition to architecture performed within this state that is deemed to be exemplary by an Award Jury, is administered by the Commission on Environment and Design. The annual Lay Person Award Program, honoring people who are not architects for their contributions to an improved physical environment, is administered here. Recently, this commission's activities have included designing for energy conservation and the use of alternate sources of energy.

The Connecticut Society of Architects' relations with Federal and State government are managed by the Commission of Government Affairs. Specific legislation is often proposed by the chapter to the General Assembly. Bills relating to architecture and the construction industry are monitored, and the chapter's reactions to them are communicated to the appropriate legislators. Architects are provided to make statements before legislative committees. The chapter, working closely with AIA headquarters in Washington, reacts to legislative proposals in the Congress.

An important concern of the Commission on Professional Practice is professional liability insurance. A task force under this commission has developed a series of seminars on the reduction of exposure to potential claims. It is also researching the various sources of professional liability insurance and, when through, will disseminate this information to architects. Practice aids developed by the Institute and elsewhere are reviewed by this commission.

This chapter's comprehensive continuing education program is adminstered by the Commission on Education. Programs, ranging from evening seminars on technical matters to full day workshops on management topics will be developed by this commission either by itself or in cooperation with universities within the state or the American Institute of Architects. The Connecticut State Architectural Registration Board and the chapter co-sponsor clinics for candidates for the architectural licensing examinations.

Architects' activities that focus directly on a city or town, as opposed to the state, are administered by the Commission on Community Services. The role of this commission is to develop programs, beneficial to the community, that will help the public understand the profession of architecture. Through this commission, speakers are furnished to civic groups and to the community's schools. Guidance in the procurement of architectural services is also given to the communities.

An article on the chapter's activities would not be complete without mention of the inauguration of a new service to its members and the entire construction industry in the state—the sales of AIA documents. The chapter office has a complete stock of AIA documents in the A,B,C,D,E and G series and intends to give prompt service on orders taken. Documents will be mailed First Class. Orders received by the chapter office before 11:00 AM will be put in the mail at noon and should arrive at most locations within the state the next day.

How to Select an Architect or Architect Services

When you embark on a major construction program, you are in fact committing your organization to what may be a multi-million dollar investment in an unknown quantity. While it is possible to define the proposed facility in terms of size, function, and certain other requirements, which together make up the "functional program" for the project, there are many imponderables.

How well and how long will the facility serve its intended purpose? Will it be responsive to the needs of its users and the community? What will it say about your image?

The architect you select to design the facility will be a major determinant in answering these questions. Investing in a construction project is unlike purchasing a commodity. Only a known need and a few ideas exist at the outset to define the scope of the project. These ideas and requirements become the basis for the architectural program, the conceptual design, and ultimately, the working drawings and specifications from which the facility will be constructed.

The individual primarily responsible for this process is the architect. The architect will determine the functional, esthetic, and financial success of the project. During the process of design and construction, he or she serves as adviser, coordinator, and synthesizer, as well as creative artist. For a period of months or years, your architect effectively becomes a partner in your organization.

Obviously, selecting the right architect is not and cannot be a casual or offhand process.

What selection process works best?

Federal, state, and local governments throughout the country, and many independent commissions, school boards, developers, and others in private industry currently rely upon architect-selection procedures that have been formulated and systematized in the crucible of actual practice. This general procedure has been formally adopted and enacted into law by the federal government and a number of state governments for selection of professionals for the design of public projects.1 While the details may vary, the process includes these basic steps:

Invitations to a number of firms to submit information concerning their experience, qualifications, specialized abilities, personnel, and similar data. This invitation includes such pertinent data as the scope of the work, budget, and time limitations, together with some indication of the professional services to be rendered. It does not include a request for sketches, cost estimates, or the suggested compensation which the architect would receive.

Evaluation of these submissions to determine which firms appear best able to handle the proposed project. Evaluation criteria should include performance on previous projects, professional standing of the firm's principals, etc., as well as such performance factors as management, coordination, accuracy, completeness, and cooperation.

Discussions with representatives of the firms you have ranked highest, to narrow the field to those most qualified for the project at hand.

Ranking of the top firms (usually three to five) in order of competence, understanding of the project, and ability to meet your budgetary and schedule requirements. This last consideration will to a great extent be based on the firm's personnel and its current and projected workload.

Discussions with the top-ranked firm to determine its ability to perform the required services within a stated time-frame and in accordance with budget requirements.

Negotiation of the architect's compensation. If a fair and equitable agreement on the cost of architect's services cannot be reached with the first-ranked firm, negotiations are officially terminated, and the second-ranked firm is invited to enter into negotiations concerning schedule, project budget, and compensation.

What should you know about the architectural firms which are under consideration?

In addition to such information as name, address, and telephone number, each firm should be asked to state the year in which it was established, the names of principals and the states in which they are registered to practice, the names of other key personnel with a resume of their experience, and the types of facilities for which the firm is particularly well qualified.

Besides this basic information, the prospective client should attempt to determine the firm's current and projected workload, number and type of support personnel, and some index of past professional accomplishments (for example, a list of previous clients during the preceding several years).

Visits to current and recent projects and discussions with their owners are also useful, as is information on the standing of the architect within the profession.

The federal government has developed a questionnaire (General Services Administration Standard Form 251) which its agencies use to solicit information from architectural and engineering firms about their experience, personnel, and general professional accomplishments. Many firms maintain completed copies of this form in their files. Such a document can serve as a valuable tool in screening a number of firms to help you determine which ones should be investigated further.

The actual selection is normally made by a committee or by an individual familiar with the procedures involved. It may be helpful to obtain the advice of a registered architect familiar with the type of project envisioned. Sometimes, for large complex facilities, an open pre-interview meeting is held, with all interested architects invited, to discuss the general scope of the project.

How do you determine the architect's compensation?

Once a firm has been selected on the basis of its qualifications and its ability to perform the work required, fee negotiations begin.

Compensation for architectural services is established in several ways, including the following:

- 1. Lump sum—commonly used when the scope of services required is known or can be realistically determined in discussions with the selected architect.
- 2. Direct cost times a multiplier to compensate for overhead and profit—used by many clients for commercial facilities.
- 3. Percentage of construction cost—often used by state and local governments (although other methods are being used with more frequency in recent years). Under the percentage method, compensation is generally determined on a declining basis; i.e., the larger the construction cost, the lower the percentage. However, the relative complexity of the facility must also be considered in determining an appropriate percentage.
- 4. Cost plus fixed fee—The architect is paid a fixed fee for his personal professional contributions to the project and other office and consultant expenses are paid for on a basis similar to that in (2) above. This type of arrangement is sometimes used when the client desires the substantial personal attention of a particular architect, because of unusual project requirements and because of that individual's special expertise in dealing with such requirements.
- 5. Per diem rates—sometimes used for unusual consultant services.

Architects and clients may also agree on a basis for compensation for other professional services which are not included in their contract, but which may conceivably be required at a later time. In addition, certain items such as long-distance travel and the reproduction of documents are paid for as direct reimbursables.

At the negotiating session, your preference as to method of compensation and the method the architectural firm considers appropriate should be discussed and a conclusion reached.

The General Services Administration (GSA) has had a wealth of experience in negotiating contracts for architectural and engineering services. One top-ranking GSA official has stressed the importance of positive attitudes during the negotiating process, saying, "A willingness to bargain and a flexibility to adjust during the negotiating process will lead to a successful conclusion. Rigidity and failure to recognize that negotiation is a two-way street will result in an impasse and termination of negotiation. In a truly successful negotiation, both parties at the conclusion should feel that they have obtained their essential objectives, and unreservedly stand ready to carry out their contractual obligations."

Most architects have a copy of the AIA publication, "Architect's Handbook of Professional Practice," which includes further details on architect selection and methods of determining compensation. AIA also publishes many useful contract forms which reflect years of experience in the construction industry and which can be used in drawing up contracts for professional design services and for construction.

Accredited Programs in Architecture

The National Architectural Accrediting Board was established in 1940 by joint action of the American Institute of Architects, the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture, and the National Council of Architectural Registration Boards. It produces and maintains a current List of Accredited Programs in Architecture in the United States and its jurisdictions, with the general objective that a well integrated and coordinated program of architectural education be developed which will be national in scope and afford opportunity for architectural schools with widely varying resources and operating conditions.

Only accredited first professional degree programs in architecture are listed. In some cases, as noted, the school is in the process of phasing out the Bachelor's program, while retaining or initiating a Master's program. Information about pre-professional, post-professional, or other degree programs which cannot be listed as accredited, may be obtained from the individual school.

THERMALBAR

A decorative, insulating panel that waterproofs and protects.

- Available in a wide range of colors and textures.
- 2. Excellent insulating value.
- 3. Maintenance free.
- 4. Shiplapped all four sides.
- 5. Factory applied, highly resilient, tape sealant that insures against leakage.
- Stabilizes wall temperature, thereby minimizing structural thermal stresses.
- 7. Lightweight less than 3 lbs. per sq. ft.
- 8. Quick and easy to apply.
- Can be installed over any structurally sound wall.
- 10. For new and existing structures.
- Constructed from a lamination of normal density expanded styrene, a tenacious high strength polymer reinforced concrete with a granular/acrylic emulsion finish.
- An economical and high performance product.

Only Pella makes a wood window with this much insulation

Only Pella saves energy with more insulation for less money. Only Pella makes a double glass wood window with a full 13/16" air space between the panes. And the greater the space between panes, up to about one inch, the greater the insulation value. As a result, Pella's Double Glass Insulation System actually outperforms ordinary welded insulating glass, yet costs less per window! Add this fact to Pella's many other "Energy-Tight" features and you have a real money saver.

Building Today For Energy Tomorrow

Many people know us as New England's largest mechanical contractor. In fact, we are one of the largest in the nation.

One area of our business gives us special pride-energy related projects. This work has been a major factor in tripling our business volume in the last five years. And it has let us contribute to the solution of tomorrow's energy problems.

Some of our recent and ongoing projects in this area are:

Nuclear

Waste system modifications for Connecticut Yankee Nuclear Power Plant, Haddam, Conn.

Heavy Fuel Oil

Construction of the first electrically traced (heated) pipeline of its kind in the United States for NEPCO.

Construction of tanker unloading, piping and transport facilities for United Illuminating Company, New Haven, Conn.

Construction of piping and mechanical facilities, ARCO tank farm (Atlantic Richfield Co.), New Haven, Conn.

construction of a 400,000-barrel storage facility for a U.S. subsidiary of Gazocean, a French corporation.

Natural Gas

Construction of piping and mechanical work for new liquefied natural gas plant for Connecticut Natural Gas Company.

Construction of two separate jet fueling facilities at Logan International Airport, Boston, Mass. For Delta Airlines and for the base operator.

Defense

Shore power facilities for nuclear submarines, Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics, Groton, Conn.

Recycling of Materials

Electrical systems for several New Haven Trap Rock-Tomasso facilities, converting accumulated rock dust to valuable construction aggregate.

At C. N. Flagg, we're working on the future. It's something we've been doing for more than 60 years.

ELEVATORS... OR DUMBWAITERS

CRAFTSMANSHIP IS THE KEY and the staff of the SERGE

ELEVATOR COMPANY possesses that rare combination of professional expertise in all phases and types of passenger elevator installations, and the integrity and reliability which is the result of many years of successful teamwork. This expertise carries through with WEISBLATT ELEVATOR.

From the simplex two-landing hydraulic to the highrise office building housing banks of group supervisory, high-speed elevators, Serge and Weisblatt "can do" with the highest degree of professionalism, to provide you with the finest in vertical transportation.

MANY COMMERCIAL BUILDINGS that don't really need a whole elevator get one anyway. Or they get an extra one. For freight. This is expensive. It's sort of like buying a first class ticket for a package.

There is an alternative. Several in fact. SEDGWICK DUMBWAITERS AND PARCEL LIFTS as installed by WEISBLATT ELEVATOR. They come in a variety of shapes, sizes and capacities. From small, efficient Correspondence Lifts to big powerful Roto-waiters, rated up to 500 lbs.

Other Sedgewick products include sidewalk, residential, and institutional elevators.

Represented in Connecticut, Pennsylvania, New York & New Jersey

(except New York City and environs)

The Ryther-Purdy Theory of Natural Selection

For more than 50 years we have been working closely with architects to develop lighting concepts which are harmonious with their surroundings. As our medium we have chosen Western Red Cedar for its unique combination of natural characteristics, including durability and beauty. Ryther-Purdy makes a comprehensive selection of wood lighting standards as well as coordinated benches, signs, guide railings and other accessories. Our custom designs complement any environment and will be fabricated to your individual specifications.

Send for latest idea file on wood lighting standards and accessories.

The problem arises with heat penetration through the roof and walls of a building. An energy-efficient building will keep heat where you want itinside during the winter. outside during the summer. Armco Building Systems engineers have developed several designs that make heat penetration more controllable, and thus reduce energy costs. Up to 3 inches of fiberglass insulation help prevent heat penetration through the roof. A special thermal spacer prevents metal-to-metal contact, an often overlooked but expensive source of heat loss. A new Armco roof panel
